

The reason we use long multiplication is to do quick calculations for real situations:
Here we are wondering how many balloons the children are holding in total.

66 balloons
× 23 children

13 balloons
× 54 children

23 balloons
× 66 children

67 balloons
× 32 children

